

Goldwyn Folkestone - History Subject Statement and Long Term Plan

History Department – Statement of Intent

'If you don't know history, you don't know anything. You are a leaf that doesn't know it is part of a tree'

History fires pupils' curiosity to ask questions and know more about Britain's past and that of the wider world. Pupils will be encouraged to develop a chronological framework of British history that will enable them to make sense of the new knowledge they acquire. This will also allow them to understand the process of change, to see how we arrived 'here' and help them to make sense of the present. We want pupils to realise that the past is gone and history is constructed and contested. History's unique concepts help pupils to construct arguments and support them to become analytical citizens who can question human motivation and society with skill and confidence.

History lessons at Goldwyn School will aim to give students the opportunity to:

- Engage with the past
- study issues at a local, national and international level in Medieval, Early Modern and Modern time periods
- understand Britain's influence on the wider world
- study the history and influence of different peoples and places across time
- assess the impact of events on individuals and communities
- be exposed to a high level of historical and conceptual vocabulary
- learn to interpret a broad range of sources including visual sources and propaganda
- be exposed to different peoples' perspectives on issues and events
- develop an understanding of how to apply and write about historical concepts such as causation; continuity and change; significance; consequence; diversity
- challenge received wisdom about historical figures and issues
- develop confidence in orating and debating historical issues and evaluate historical interpretations

The curriculum is sequenced to ensure:

- students learn within a coherent chronological framework
- key concepts and themes such as civilisation, society, government are interwoven
- there is opportunity to measure pace, extent and trends in change and continuity over time

- students are able to make relevant links between historical episodes such as the black death and the industrial revolution
- there is progression between key stages 3 and 4, with students being exposed to themes and content that will allow all students to access the KS4 content where appropriate
- there is an increasing level of challenge and complexity to enquiries
- there is appropriate division of time between Ancient, Medieval, Early Modern and Modern topics

Examinations:

- Students will have the opportunity to complete AQA Unit Awards

History Department: Long Term Plan

The History Long Term Plan reflects a key focus upon Knowledge, Skills and Understanding. It is anticipated that all pupils will have the opportunity to study for a formal qualification in History which addresses their needs, including AQA Awards, Entry level Certificates and GCSE examinations. The Curriculum Plan has a clear sequence centred upon both prior learning and expectations for future learning. The work at Key Stage 3 should provide the foundation for further progress to other courses.
