

How are you feeling?

Taking care of your and your family's minds, as well as your bodies, and feeling better on the inside, really is important at this time.

We have a range of services to help you look after the mental health and wellbeing of children, young people and adults.

You are not alone

49% of all adults said that the coronavirus pandemic has impacted negatively on their mental health and wellbeing.

People surveyed said that over the course of the pandemic they were experiencing more:

Anxiety
46%

Stress
44%

Sleep problems
34%

Low mood
46%

75% reported that they are planning to take or have taken steps to look after their mental wellbeing.

online survey January 2021)

Tips for dealing with uncertainty

▶ Take stock of how you feel

Put time aside to examine your current situation and consider how you really feel, perhaps talking it through with someone you trust.

▶ Focus on the short term

The further we look into the future, the easier it is to get overwhelmed by long-term uncertainty. Try to focus on the day-to-day. Think about what's in your power to do right now.

▶ Acknowledge what's working

Even when it might feel like everything is up in the air or going wrong, there will be some things, however small, that do not change.

▶ Reframe your thoughts

In difficult times like this, it can be easy to get caught up in negative thoughts, feelings and actions. It can be helpful to step back, examine the evidence for your thoughts and explore other ways of looking at the situation.

▶ Find a new rhythm

Routine and structure can be a powerful way to regain consistency and reduce uncertainty. Make time to de-stress and wind down each day – build in positive activities like exercise, relaxation, hobbies, speaking to friends and think about a positive sleep routine.
